

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

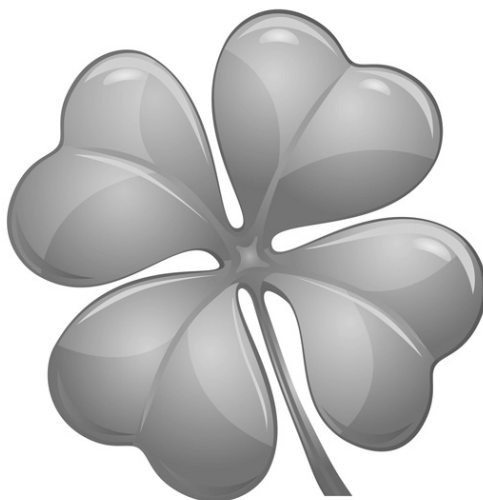

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Are you a lucky person?

Learning Outcome

Describe unusual events in the past through a wider range of B1 language in both work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- What are the different types of lucky charms?
- Do you have a lucky charm? Why or why not?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about manners, customs and superstitions.
- I can talk about my attitudes toward an action.
- I can talk about hypothetical situations.

Let's Explore!

Sally tells a story about her favorite good luck charm.

* A "good luck charm" is something believed to bring good luck.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Our reader mailbag:

Brad from Chicago writes, "I am not a superstitious person, but my friends are. They have several good luck charms; rabbits' feet, horseshoes, lucky numbers, but I think good luck charms are ridiculous. I was wondering if you believe in good luck charms?"

Reading this letter reminds me that I am a very lucky person. A couple of years ago, I worked in a comic book store part-time because I really wanted to travel and I needed to make some money. Traveling to Europe was my fantasy and I always said if I won the lottery, I would travel there first. If I were lucky enough, it would be the first thing that I would do. But I thought my dream would never come true.

One day, I was walking down the street and I saw a penny on the ground. I decided to pick it up because I needed the money. I then went to work and started complaining to my friend Peter about how I didn't have any money. Peter smiled and listened and when I was done, presented me with a lottery ticket he had bought. The next day, I discovered that I had won a million dollars.

Some people associate my win with that lucky penny, but I associate it all with Peter. Peter is my lucky penny. So Brad, if I were you, I would not make fun of your friends' superstitions, because one day your luck could change.

Let's Practice!

Frank has a good attitude towards superstitions.

Instructions: Organize the mystery sentences. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. your / thing / fun / do / to / superstitions / mean / . / of / friends' / is / Making

2. the / was / . / lottery / I / not / something / Winning / expected

3. dream / warm / place / going / for / My / the / . / true / to / come / a / may / holidays / of

4. I / like / world / around / read / superstitions / the / about / . / to

5. Luck / in / a / thought / always / carrying / charm / . / life / that / me / would / help / I / good

Let's Practice!

What if superstitions were true?

Instructions: Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. If I won the lottery, I would travel there first.

2. If I am happy enough, I will be able to make others happy too.

3. If I were you, I would not make fun of superstitions.

4. Your dream of buying a new house would come true if you played the lottery.

5. If you believe in superstitions, you would be a happier person.

Extension Activity

Do a student lottery survey.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- In pairs, write down questions about lotteries and winning money.
- Use hypothetical situation questions as much as possible.
- Ask other classmates your questions and note down their answers.
- Go back to your original partner and compare your findings.
- Make mini-presentations to other groups on your findings.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I can talk about manners, customs and superstitions.

☐ ☐

I can talk about my attitudes toward an action.

☐ ☐

I can talk about hypothetical situations.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- rabbit's foot (noun): the foot of a rabbit carried as a good luck charm
e.g. For luck, I always keep a rabbit's foot in my pocket when I write a test.
- horseshoe (noun): a U-shaped metal plate nailed to a horse's hoof to protect it from injuries
e.g. I heard that a horseshoe brings good luck.
- ridiculous (adjective): stupid or unreasonable; laughable
e.g. Some people think it is ridiculous to believe in good luck.
- good luck charm (noun): something believed to bring good luck
e.g. She kept a penny in her shoe as a good luck charm.
- fantasy (noun): a pleasant situation unlikely to happen
e.g. If I won a lot of money, my fantasy would be to travel the world.
- to complain (verb): to say that something is wrong or unsatisfactory e.g. He always has to complain about never having money.
- to associate (verb): to connect someone in your mind with someone or something else
e.g. He seemed to associate her luck with that penny she always kept on her.
- mailbag (noun): a large bag or pouch used in transporting mail in bulk e.g. He enjoyed reading the interesting letters posted in the Reader Mailbag column.

Learning Points

Gerunds and Infinitives

When a verb ends with -ing (doing – enjoying – reacting), is a gerund. An infinitive is formed with "to + verb" (to do – to divide – to decide).

There are rules about which verbs you can use with gerunds and which can use with infinitives.

Take into account that the gerund can be used as the subject of the sentence.

Followed by a gerund:

Verbs that express likes/dislikes:

like

love

enjoy

hate

Example:

I enjoy having a lucky rabbit's foot.

- like/love/hate can also be followed by an infinitive.

Followed by an infinitive:

hope

seem

decide

start

Example:

I decided to buy a good luck charm.

You use infinitives after adjectives.

Example:

I was happy to write about a lucky penny I found.

An activity can be used as a gerund- this gerund is the subject of the sentence.

Example:

Keeping a lucky charm is important.*

Being lucky is always nice.*

Examples:

- Reading this letter reminds me that I am a very lucky person.
- I really wanted to travel.

Learning Points

Conditional Sentences with If Clause

You use the first conditional to say it's possible that you will or will not do something. In that condition, something else may, may not, will or will not happen.

The parts of the sentence are divided into two clauses: the if clause and the condition clause.

You use the second conditional to talk about hypothetical situations. There is no certainty that the condition will be fulfilled.

For example:

If I had a million dollars, I would travel to Europe

Do you have a million dollars? No.

Is it possible to suddenly get a million dollars? Not really.

What would you do if you had a million dollars? Travel to Europe.

You use the Simple Past verb + would

First Conditional: 1st Clause	First Conditional: 2nd Clause	Meaning
If I study today,	I'll go to the party tonight.	It's possible that I can go to the party tonight, but only if I study first.
Second Conditional: If ... + Simple Past	Second Conditional: would + base verb	Result
If I won the lottery,	I would travel to Europe.	It is an impossible situation because it is unlikely to win the lottery and therefore can only happen in a hypothetical situation.

Examples:

- If I won the lottery, I would travel there first.
- If I were lucky enough, it would be the first thing that I would do.
- If I had a lot of money, I would buy some pumpkins and give them to a charity.
- If I were you, I would not make fun of your friends' superstitions.

