

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Let's review!

Learning Outcome

Describe complicated or unusual events in the past through a wider range of B1 language in both work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- Who is the luckiest person you know?
- Why is that person lucky?
- Are you a lucky person? Why or why not?

Can Do Statements

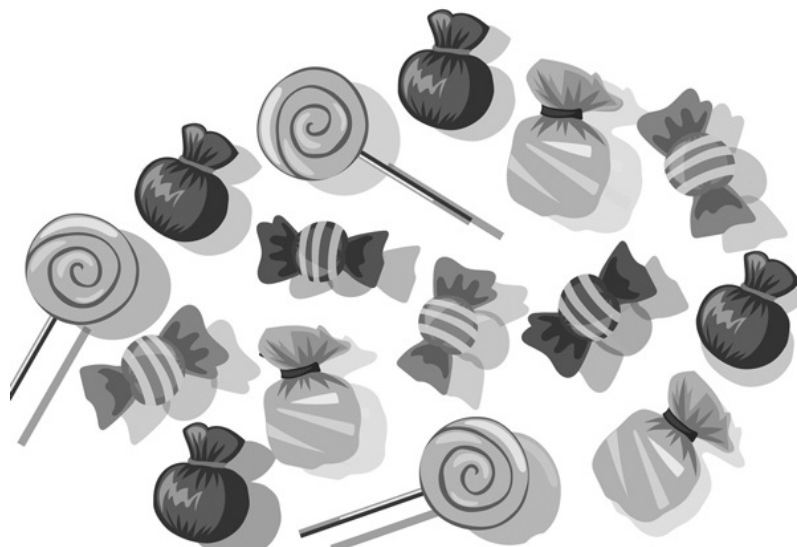

- I can talk about manners, customs and superstitions.
- I can talk about things I am/was supposed to do and things that are/were supposed to happen.
- I can talk about hypothetical situations.

Let's Explore!

Sally thanks her fans for sending her letters for her blog.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Halloween has arrived. If I were a child again, I would freak out! I would be putting on my elegant costume if I were a little girl getting ready to go out. It is so much fun! Writing about superstitions was also fun because superstitions are magical and sometimes sacred and I love the stories. I was delighted by your e-mails. I wanted to make my blog entries as entertaining as possible.

I hope to hear from all my fans again for the next mailbag bunch. All of your superstition e-mails were read, but if I didn't address yours, I am sorry. Providing me topics makes you all a big part of my blog. Again I'm sure mistakes were made, so please send me your corrections.

What am I doing tonight? I am supposed to give out candy. Then I am supposed to go to a costume party. I was supposed to go to a friend's house for dinner, but I decided not to go. Late tonight, I am supposed to go dancing. So it will be an exciting evening. Finally, I wanted to talk about one more thing.

A lot of you wrote about superstitions and the curse of bad luck and asked me if it is possible to change your luck.

My advice, if I were you I wouldn't worry about being lucky. Don't be a victim. Instead, if I were you, I would try to make my own luck by continuing to work hard.

Happy Halloween.

Let's Practice!

Sally talks about manners, customs and superstitions.

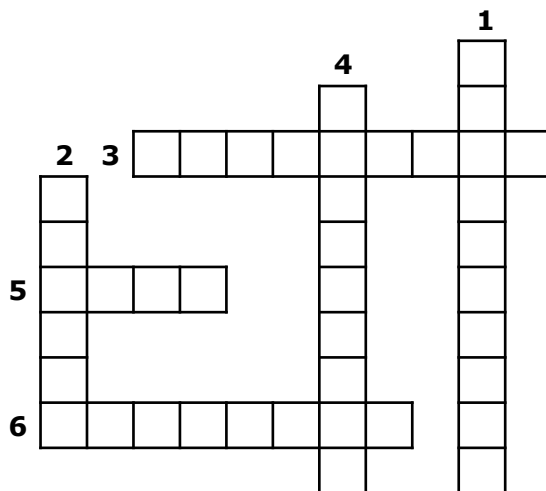

Instructions: Read the clues.

DOWN

1. My sister was _____ by the strange steps walking towards her.
2. That house was _____ by a witch.
4. I was ____ by your e-mails.

ACROSS

3. Give me some time and each one of your messages will be _____.
5. All of your superstitious e-mails were _____.
6. My Halloween costume was _____ by a friend of mine

Let's Practice!

Sally considers different things.

Instructions: Proofread the sentences. Underline the incorrect words. Rewrite the sentences correctly. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. If were a child again, I will be freak out!

2. I am putting on my elegant custom if I were a little girl.

3. I'm sure mistakes was made, so please send me some your corrections.

4. If you didn't get worried about curses, you won't get bad luck.

5. If I were you, I would try to made my own luck.

Extension Activity

Is that superstition true?

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Share a few unusual superstitions with the class.
- Ask them if they think these superstitions are true or untrue.
- Make sure you encourage your classmates to share the reasons behind their responses.
- Reveal that a few of your superstitions are false.
- With a partner identify and describe four superstitions. Each superstition can be true or false.
- Separate from your partner and join another group.
- In your group have each person read a superstition and the group members guess if it's true or false and explain why.
- Continue to the next person in the group.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I talk about superstitions.

☐ ☐

I talk about things I am/was supposed to do and things that are/were supposed to happen.

☐ ☐

I present information clearly and confidently.

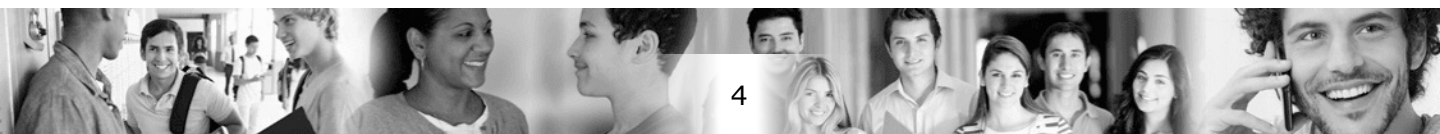

☐ ☐

I listen for the gist and details of what is said.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- to freak out (verb): to be in a heightened emotional state such as fear or excitement e.g. If I were a child again, I would freak out!
- elegant (adjective): tasteful or refined e.g. I would be putting on my elegant costume if I were a little girl getting ready to go out.
- sacred (adjective): dedicated or in relation to a deity e.g. Superstitions are magical and sometimes sacred.
- fan (noun): someone that is devoted to or admires something
e.g. I hope to hear from all my fans again for the next mailbag bunch.
- bunch (noun): a group of things that are related to each other and gathered in the same place.
e.g. I hope to hear from all my fans again for the next mailbag bunch.
- to address (verb): to direct the attention towards something specific e.g. All of your superstition e-mails were read, but if I didn't address yours, I am sorry.
- curse (noun): a source or cause of evil
e.g. A lot of you wrote about superstitions and the curse of bad luck.
- victim (noun): someone that gets harmed or killed by someone else
e.g. If I were you I wouldn't worry about being lucky. Don't be a victim.

Learning Points

Be Supposed To

You use the structure be supposed to when you want to talk about expectations, obligations or arrangements.

You can use be supposed to to talk about situations in the past, present or future.

The structure is:

subject + to be + supposed to + verb

You are not supposed to come to dinner tonight.

I am supposed to give out Halloween candy.

*Pronunciation tip: When you say be supposed to, you link the /d/ and /t/ sounds together.

Like this:

Be suppose_to

Examples:

- I am supposed to give out candy. Then I am supposed to go to a costume party.
- I was supposed to go to a friend's house for dinner.
- Later tonight, I am supposed to go dancing.

Conditional Sentences with If Clause

You use the first conditional with if clauses to exchange opinions about possible future outcomes.

You use the second conditional to exchange opinions about unreal or imaginary (hypothetical) situations in the future.

You use the first conditional to say it's possible that you will or will not do something. In that condition, something else may, may not, will, or will not happen.

The parts of the sentence are divided into two clauses: the if clause and the condition clause.

Learning Points

You use the second conditional to talk about hypothetical situations. There is no certainty that it's possible to fulfill the condition.

For example:

If I had a million dollars, I would buy a car.

Do you have a million dollars? No.

Is it possible to suddenly get a million dollars? Not really.

What would you do if you had a million dollars? Buy a car.

You use the Simple Past verb + would

First	First Conditional: 2nd Clause	Meaning
If I study today,	I'll go to the party tonight.	It's possible that I can go to the party tonight, but only if I study first.
Second Conditional: If ... + Simple Past	Second Conditional: would + base verb	Result
If I were a child again,	I would be a princess for Halloween.	It is an impossible situation because you are not a child and thus, this can only happen in a hypothetical situation.

Examples:

- If I were a child again, I would freak out!
- I would be putting on my elegant costume if I were a little girl.
- If I were a child at Halloween again, I would be a princess.

